ALPS HR Connect

Connecting & Engaging our employees no matter where they sit at

Cindy Ang, Winnie Chew
ALPS HR Office

Introduction

ALPS recognizes the importance of engaging employees to improve work culture and increase productivity.

Although our employees are sited at different institutions across Singapore, we want to engage and make them feel connected by keeping them updated of all recent & upcoming events in the organization.

Methodology

One of our employee engagement initiatives includes circulating our monthly HR e-newsletter (HR Connect) to staff to keep them up-to-date with the latest happenings in the organization.

Inputs are gathered from within the HR department monthly to capture all newsworthy and recent happenings and events, as well as meaningful articles to share with all staff.

To make the experience more interactive, staff are also encouraged to provide feedback, participate in quizzes, or send in their pictures taken during company-wide events for us to publish and share with other staff.

Conclusion

There is no cost involved in the creation of the e-newsletter as it is created on PowerPoint. With a click, it is mass sent out timely to staff who are sited in more than 20 locations across Singapore.

Comments that we have received from staff have been positive thus far. We recognized that engaged employees are committed and more productive. We are open to feedback from our readers and will continue to improve in future editions of our newsletter.

Result

*I read HR Connect every month!

*We receive up-to-date news via HR Connect.

*Actual feedback received from staff.
